

Concours International des Produits Biologiques et en conversion : Results are online!

The 27th edition of the Concours International des Produits Biologiques et en conversion took place on Wednesday, May 10th in Lyon. Professionals and enlightened amateurs met to taste and mark a total of 763 organic wines, beers and spirits from across the globe. At the end of the tasting, a Grand Jury elected the World's Best Organic Products from amongst the gold medal winners with the highest marks.

About the competition

The competition provides a true showcase for actors in the organic sector. It also helps these actors stand up to competition and renew consumers' confidence, because the products are tasted by a jury representative of a panel of consumers. Under the watchful eyes of the Commissioner General, 251 samples have been awarded gold and silver medals. All samples were tasted in conformity with strict hygiene measures, competition regulations and our ISO9001 certification.

Wine competition

528 organic, biodynamic, natural and in conversion wines have been tasted during the 2023 edition. In all, 173 wines were awarded medals for their expression of the terroir.

At the end of the tasting, a « Grand Jury » elected the World's Best Organic Wine, all countries combined: the winner is Champagne Cordeuil Père et Fille Millésime 2015.
